

City Concours brings together supercars, luxury brands

The new City Concours will take place at the Honourable Artillery Company headquarters in London from 8-9 June 2017, bringing together more than 100 supercars and a host of luxury brands.

The City Concours is the newest event from the team behind the world-famous Concours of Elegance.

Confirmed cars

Among the rare and exclusive cars already confirmed to attend are a number of supercar icons from the last 60 years such as the Mercedes 300SL 'Gullwing', Jaguar XJ220, Ferrari LaFerrari, and McLaren P1.

Alongside the list of cars curated by the event organisers, a number will be on display courtesy of a host of high-end automotive brands. Jaguar specialist Clayton Classics, Aston Martin specialist Nicholas Mee, luxury car dealerships Romans and Stratstone, and classic car specialist Fiskens are just a few of the confirmed City Concours automotive partners.

Luxury brands

The top collection of cars on display isn't the event's only attraction, with a number of luxury brands showcasing their goods and a host of quality food and drink options. Auction house RM Sotheby's will be hosting a breakfast each morning of the City Concours and champagne house Taittinger will host its own champagne tent.

Andrew Evans, City Concours Director, said: “With such an amazing lineup of cars and luxury partners, we’ve got a very special show in store. Whether it’s stopping by for a glass of champagne and a wander round the cars or a breakfast in the stunning Honourable Artillery Company grounds, there will be plenty for visitors to see and do.”
