

Contemporary title bearing fruit

Contemporary culture magazine one small seed has grown from 64 pages in its October 2005 launch issue to 176 pages for issue 05 (Nov-Dec-Jan), and with it an increase in its print run. This quarterly magazine features art, architecture, design, graphics, fashion, film, international styles and is "shamelessly skewed towards locality, providing an illuminating insight into South African popular culture and bearing witness of the enormous talent the country has to offer," according to Amelia Burger of one small seed. The title retails at R37.50; for more info, go to www.onesmallseed.co.za.
