

Konga founder Sim Shagaya steps down as CEO

By Paul Adepoju

28 Jan 2016

Nigerian tech entrepreneur Sim Shagaya has announced he is stepping down as the CEO of Konga, which is one of Africa's leading e-commerce companies.

Image credit: Ventureburn.com

In an email sent to the company's staff, Shagaya said he is stepping down to assume the role of the chairman of the company's board of directors. Former Konga COO Shola Adekoya has been appointed acting CEO, who will be in charge until in interim until the board has made a new appointment.

Read more on Ventureburn.com.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>