

Four Vega students acknowledged in WPO competition

Four students from Vega School have been recognised in the 2017 WPO International Packaging Design Student Competition.

The competition serves as an international platform for students who have won awards for packaging design in their home countries.

Eliana Raff, Page Lotze, Casey Ogilvie, and Jason Walden received awards at the IPSA Goldpack Awards for individual and joint packaging projects.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>