The City of Tshwane in partnership with Alive2Green will be hosting the Green Home Fair at Woodlands Boulevard Shopping Centre from 4-5 June 2016 as part of Sustainability Week 2016.

While multiple Sustainability Week conference and seminars will be taking place at the CSIR ICC, attracting thought-leaders and experts in all areas of sustainability, to deliberate high-level sustainability and climate change challenges, the Green Home Fair is for everyone.

With a myriad eco products and service offerings on show, shoppers can explore a range of innovative ideas to help them do their part in the race for sustainability by reducing their and their families' impact on people and the environment – all while saving money too.

From alternative methods and products, to off-grid energy, water and waste solutions; energy- and water-efficient appliances; fuel-efficient cars; natural and organic products; and much, much more, the Green Home Fair is a showcase of everything 'green'.

"Whether you're an interior decorator with a keen interest in sustainability, a parent concerned about your children's future, or someone wanting to start your own sustainable veggie garden, or find out what more you can do to boost your recycling efforts, the Green Home Fair is for you," says Gordon Brown, CEO of Alive2Green, organisers of Sustainability Week 2016.

The Green Home Fair takes place at Woodlands Boulevard Shopping Centre from 4-5 June 2016.
