“There are plenty of higher and tertiary education options out there, but we have recognised that not every person can afford to enrol at a university, nor can benefit from long distance learning. Our content caters for everyone, wherever they may be in South Africa,” says Educate24 academic convener Dr Elsamari Botha.

“There are courses for both the successful entrepreneur who wants to learn more about marketing or project management, and the spaza owner who wants to grow his business. We cover a vital gap that has been left open in the market by providing meaningful short courses that are accessible and can be completed in your own time and at your own pace,” Botha adds.

The cost of courses starts at R399.
