

New business development director for Turner Africa

Colman Murray has been appointed as business development director for Africa by logistics company, Turner Africa. Murray has extensive international media experience and will be responsible for growing the business throughout the African region. This is the first African-based appointment for Turner Africa.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>