Chief executive officer, TVC Communications, Andrew Hanlon, said, “Behind this state-of-the art studio in Lagos lies the real engine of our news operation: a substantial team of journalists, producers and the latest mobile satellite technology, spread throughout Nigeria, providing us with the ability to broadcast live anywhere, anytime.

“This will be put to the test this election weekend as over 80 million Nigerians go to the polls to cast their votes.”

Director of news, TVC News, Stella Din-Jacob, said “We are incredibly fortunate to have some of the best people and broadcast facilities in continental Africa which will enable us to bring the highest quality news service to our viewers right across Nigeria, Africa and Europe.
