

Beat the bank on East Coast Radio

7 Mar 2011

The December holidays are now a distant memory, as is the bonus that came with it. East Coasters around the province have indicated that what they need most right now, is another holiday and the cash to finance it.

East Coast Radio is currently hosting the Beat the Bank competition and if you are one of the lucky winners, you could win up to R20 000 in cold, hard cash. To beat the bank open as many vaults as you like and you could win a lot of money, but if you open one vault too many, you could be left empty-handed.

Throughout the day, listen out for the signal to enter the competition. When playing against the bank, you will hear one or more vault doors opening, revealing the money it contains. With each opening of a vault you will have the option to stop and win the amount of cash just announced, or if you have courage to, you may continue to the next vault. This could mean a bigger win or you could risk losing it all.

The human condition creates conflict when a decision has to be made. The bird in the hand or the two in the bush? How would you react if given the choice? Stay with what you have or risk it all for something bigger - what would you do? Discover your breaking point!
