

Vox provides sponsorship to Damage Control

Vox has come onboard as sponsors of Damage Control, a third-ranked Counter Strike Global Offensive South African gaming team. As part of the sponsorship agreement, each of the team members will receive a 12-month sponsored 100Mb link, as well as connectivity.

The sponsorship also provides for a hardware subsidy that covers the costs of headphones, graphics cards, and keyboards. In turn, DC will compete in sporting branded apparel and gear sponsored by Vox at local and international tournaments over the next 12 months.
