

Catch Chu on THE BOX

If you want to find out more about local creatives who are shifting the landscape of music, art, television, acting, performing, fashion, photography and illustration, don't miss THE BOX!

THE BOX is a portrait series that runs with an interview, released every fortnight over the span of 183 days. THE BOX gives the viewer a glimpse into the lives of 12 individuals and exposes them by allowing our gaze to shift expectations and the paradigm of social status.

The first of the series featured the radio and television presenter-actress-wine maker Elana Afrika-Bredenkamp, click here to see it.

The second of the series places the spotlight on Chu Suwannapha, who is a former fashion designer and now editor of You/Huisgenoot and Drum magazine. It's just about impossible to miss him on his casual walk to work every day, and in the series this humble man speaks about the ostentatious fashion industry in Cape Town and where digital is taking us.

Click through to the full interview on ANDREA GWYNN's YouTube channel, where you can find out more about the creative house that creates digitally forward content founded by never-say-die Chloe Andrea and over-achiever Darren Gwynn.

If you want to tweet questions about THE BOX, follow ANDREA GWYNN on Twitter.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>