Nairobi's iHub launches “Open House Fridays”

By Tom Jackson

12 Oct 2017

Kenyan innovation space the iHub has announced “Open House Fridays”, which offers local techies and entrepreneurs free use of the hub's co-working space every Friday in October.

Image via Disrupt Africa

The iHub, launched in 2010, provides a home for Kenya’s tech community and allows developers and entrepreneurs to connect and work on ideas.

It currently has more than 16,000 members, and recently appointed a new managing director. Disrupt Africa reported in September of last year the hub was to relocate from its Ngong Road home as it sought more space having raised funding in order to help it scale operations. A new home was found in Hurlingham in December, and the co-working space was completed in June of this year.

Every African tech hub for itself in quest for sustainability

Tom Jackson 7 Aug 2017

The iHub is now inviting local developers and entrepreneurs to come and work from the space every Friday this month at no cost.

“Open days give you the perfect opportunity to test the iHub space. Come in, grab a sit, work and experience the day as an iHub member,” the iHub said.

This article was originally published on www.disrupt-africa.com.

ABOUT TOM JACKSON

Co-founder @DisruptAfrica. Tech and business journalist in Africa. Passionate about the vibrant tech startups scene in Africa, Tom can usually be found sniffing out the continent's most exciting new companies and entrepreneurs, funding rounds and any other developments within the growing ecosystem.

- UCT's Bertha Centre dishes out $50k startup grant funding - 13 Aug 2018
- IFC to invest in Capria network fund to address "missing middle" - 6 Aug 2018
- New startup accelerator launches in Malawi - 26 Jul 2018
- Startups invited to apply for AppsAfrica Innovation Awards - 16 Jul 2018
- Apply to pitch your startup at Ghana Tech Summit! - 12 Jul 2018

View my profile and articles...

For more, visit: https://www.bizcommunity.com