

Vox drops data prices for Fat Pipe DSL packages

Telecoms company, Vox, is dropping its data prices for its Fat Pipe Home DSL to below R1 per GB. The price drop relates to all new online sales across the Fat Pipe DSL product range and includes subscriptions bought online before 1 January 2017.

Vox has also announced that their existing Fat Pipe customers will receive additional data for the same price they're currently paying and have their GB prices dropped to below R1 as well.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>