

Volkswagen Group's electromobility future

The future is CO2-neutral and software-driven, that is the underlying message from a press conference held by the VW Group earlier today. Under the 'New Auto' banner the German auto giant has unveiled a massive undertaking that will change the company in the new age of motoring.

"We set ourselves a strategic target to become global market leader in electric vehicles – and we are well on track. Now we are setting new parameters," said CEO Herbert Diess during the presentation of New Auto, the Group's strategy through 2030.

Continue reading the full story on Double Apex.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>