

Winners announced for the 2017 National Arts Festival Awards

The Fringe at this year's National Arts Festival saw more than two hundred productions premiere, with the Ovation Awards panel making their way through the festival's theatres to select work that stood out and made audiences stand up.

The 2017 panel was convened by Tracey Saunders. Panel members were Jade Bowers, Lara Bye, Motlatji Ditodi, Mhlanguli George, Caryn Green, Mwenya Kabwe, Liane Loots, Zanele Madiba, Alby Michaels, Jayne Morgan, Nobesuthu Rayi, Sarah Roberson, Warona Seane, Mareli Stolp, Hugo Theart, Simon Tibbs and Lee-Ann van Rooi.

“A willingness to take risks was evident in many productions and in several instances, it paid off. Exciting work came from unexpected places and if the Fringe reflects the state of the performing arts in the country, it is bold, vibrant and angry.” said Tracey Saunders, convenor of the 2017 panel, also noting that the range of work on offer was diverse – from delicate, solo work to large, chaotic ensembles and several permutations in between.
