

Ellum takeover at Synergy Live

There will be an official Ellum label showcase and stage takeover at Synergy Live 2015, featuring Gardens of God and Dino Lenny, on Saturday, 28 November, 2015, from 10pm to 2am.

Gardens of God have had a ground-breaking year in 2015, with releases on Maceo Plex's label Ellum and Ten Wall's Boso, both of which have cemented his reputation as the new maestro of electronic music production. Delivering a mature and accomplished sound weaving between house, techno and electronica, it's hard to place Gardens of God in any one specific genre. Already set to play a host of clubs and festivals throughout the rest of this year and the next, GoG will no doubt be a name that will become quickly familiar in the music landscape.

Producer Dino Lenny gained notoriety in the late 1990s after remixing INXS, Underworld, Missy Elliot and Timbaland, and collaborating with everyone from Scissors Sisters and Steve Lawler to Wu Tang Clan and Madonna. His productions have earned him three 'Essential New Tune' on Radio One (BBC) by Pete Tong. Considered "A Wizard of Electronic music" by the Chemical Brothers, Dino's main project at the moment is with Maceo Plex's label Ellum, which has already had releases It's Saturday and Living In A Song, with remixes from Gardens of God, Shall Ocín & Rebolledo. Catch Dino Lenny on the Olmeca ERA club stage.

Get your tickets and ticketing info at www.webtickets.co.za

Check out www.synergylive.co.za and www.facebook.com/synergylive for forthcoming artist announcements, info and line-ups.