

Media Law: Open Justice - podcast episode 1

In this podcast series, media law expert Dario Milo unpacks several issues related to 'open justice' - the common law principle that court and other similar proceedings are open to the public. Over time, court proceedings are now routinely broadcast and streamed live, such as in the Oscar Pistorius murder trial.

Milo is joined on the show by: Adv. Andrea Johnson of the National Prosecuting Authority – she was the co-prosecutor on the Oscar Pistorius trial and part of the team who successfully convicted former national police commissioner Jackie Selebi of corruption in 2010. He is also joined by Franny Rabkin, one of the leading legal journalists in South Africa.

Click here to listen to the podcast.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>