

To mark this occasion, Ambar Sur, founder and CEO of TerraPay said, “Over the last few years mobile money has increasingly become a norm in Uganda, especially for those who were financially excluded earlier. We are delighted to bring the convenience of instant cross-border money transfer, directly to mobile wallets for the people of Uganda.”

TerraPay is building a fully-compliant and efficient set of payment rails. Financial instruments via a single agreement with TerraPay can plug into the central platform to accept payments from almost any payments service provider in the world.
