Headline Award:

- Top Empowered Business of the Year

CEO of Assupol Life, Bridget Mokwena-Halala, a member of this year's judging panel, has this to say about entering the awards: "When a business enters the Top Empowerment Awards, they are saying they have reached a level of maturity and confidence in their transformation journey, that warrants their accomplishments being showcased publicly.

"And if they receive a Top Empowerment Award accolade for those accomplishments, they receive the ultimate recognition from their peers in South African business. A Top Empowerment Awards accolade is confirmation that the business is making a visible impact in its sector and that the business itself is well positioned for an upward trajectory."

Entries close end of February 2020. Winners will be announced at a gala dinner in Johannesburg on 16 April 2020. We invite you to submit your nomination for the 2020 Top Empowerment Awards, to celebrate today's empowerment leaders and inspire tomorrow's.
